To all licensed youth camps - aquatics staffing reminders for the 2026 season

As camps open spring staffing, the Bureau reminds licensees of three recurring problem areas observed in the 2025 inspection cycle:

- Match the credential to the duty. A current lifeguarding or supervisory credential does not by itself authorize every aquatics duty. Swim-ability assessment, deep-water supervision, and program oversight are distinct authorities. Review each assignment against your camp's written credential standard at hiring time, not after the season opens.
- Track validity windows. Most lifeguarding credentials carry a 24-month validity window; CPR components and bloodborne-pathogens training run shorter. An expiry tracker reviewed monthly is the control the Bureau expects to see at inspection.
- Keep operational logs operational. Water-quality logs, ratio schedules, and incident logs should record what was tested, who was on stand, and what happened - not credential data. Inspectors read these logs as the operational record of the season.

Camps with questions about staffing standards should contact the Bureau before the season opens. Early questions are free; findings are not.
